IBD'S TOP 10

Stocks Enjoy Best Gain In Weeks

Closing at or near Mon.'s highs, the NYSE composite jumped 3.6%, the Nasdaq 3.1%, the S&P 500 3%, the Dow 2.8%. But volume fell and top-rated stocks were mostly quiet. Financials led on analyst comments. Rising builder sentiment and strong results from home-improvement chain Lowe's^{$LWY} lifted housing-related stocks. More on this page, B2

Indian Stocks Surge On Election

The BSE index soared 17.3%, its best 1-day gain in nearly 2 decades to the highest level since Sept., on optimism that Congress' resounding election victory will lead to stronger economic reforms. U.S. shares of IT outsourcing firm Infosys^{$INFY} rose 9%, Icici Bank^{$IBN} 25% and Dr. Reddy's Labs^{$DRRL} — which also reported Q4 results — 10.5%. More on B5

Israel PM Ready To Restart Talks

After meeting with Pres. Obama, Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu said he's willing to resume peace talks with Palestinians, but said any accord must include acceptance of Israel's right to exist. It was a small gesture of cooperation by Netanyahu, who's rejected U.S. calls for talks to create a Palestinian state. Netanyahu pressed Obama to make halting Iran's nuclear work a priority.

Geithner Opposes Gov't Pay Cap

The Treasury Sec'y said, "I don't think our government should set caps on compensation," but added that there should be "broad constraints" on incentives that encourage excessive risk. Timothy Geithner's comments clarified the aim of the administration's plans to regulate pay of the financial industry. The gov't already has capped pay of companies receiving bailout aid.

Crude Erases Last Week's Losses

The June oil contract jumped 5% to settle at $2.69 higher at $59.03 a barrel. The contract expires Tue., and futures generally have been volatile in the day or two before expiration. News reports that Nigerian rebels planned to block waterways and halt oil exports boosted buying, as did a Sunoco^{$SUN} refinery fire. Gold and silver lost ground as investors shifted toward stocks and currencies.

THE BIG PICTURE

Stocks Zoom Ahead In Increased Trade

BY PAUL WHITFIELD

INVESTOR'S BUSINESS DAILY

Brushing off negative news is a sign of a resilient market.

Stocks did just that Tuesday as the market decided that news of North Korea's nuclear saber-rattling was worth less than a half-hour of worrying.

The indexes opened lower but popped into positive territory 10 minutes later on the Nasdaq, even before a surprisingly good report on consumer confidence.

From there, stocks curved upward to a strong finish.

The Nasdaq leapt 3.5%, easily recovering its 200-day moving average. The S&P 500 added 2.6%.

Weekly Plus Daily Charts Give Full Story

BY VINCENT MAO
INVESTOR'S BUSINESS DAILY

Police use helicopters and patrol cars to track those who run from the law. The helicopter gives officers the big picture; on the ground, the black-and-white zeroes in on the suspects.

In a similar way, investors should use weekly and daily charts — and the different advantages they offer — when studying price and volume action. The picture that a weekly price and volume chart paints may be different when viewed through the prism of a daily chart, and vice versa.

So, use both to get a more complete picture of the stock and nab a breakout.

Basics Of Charts

For those new to stock charts, each bar in a weekly chart contains five days of trading, unless there's a holiday. A daily view covers one day of activity.

The weekly time frame is your bigger-picture chart. It gives you more history, so you can see the longer-term trend of the stock.

When scouting chart patterns, this should be your time frame of choice. It's easier to see past formations as well as those in development. Use the weekly chart to gauge the soundness of the pattern. Bases should be fairly tight rather than wide and loose.

With the weekly chart, you can more easily see if a stock meets the minimum time requirement for a particular base. Remember, most patterns need at least seven weeks to form.

Gauging A Base's Strength

You can also quickly gauge the accumulation vs. distribution in the base (which is a way to spot institutional activity in the stock), find areas of overhead supply (a potential wave of sellers trying to sell as soon as they can break even) and see how a stock has been closing each week (the higher it closes in the price range, the better).

While you can use the daily chart to spot patterns also, it's generally best for fine-tuning your buy points, or sell situations.

Use it to check for short handles that might not be easily visible on the weekly chart.

The daily time frame is also good for spotting price gaps, which can give valuable clues about a stock's condition.

After a stock clears a proper buy point, look at its volume. It should be at least 50% above its average on a breakout.

Oil and gas producer Continental Resources ^{Q1R} went public in May 2007 at 15 a share. On July 17, the stock hit a high of $18.39 ① then started to form its first base.

By late September the stock was shaping a cup base, giving a buy line.

Continental cleared the handle Sept. 27 in more than twice its average volume ②. By early January 2008, it had surged more than 50%.

MUST READ!

IBD's founder created the first daily stock computer database in the 1960s. IBD now has models of all top-performing stocks each year from 1880 to 2008. We analyzed all key fundamental & market variables present just before these super-winners increased 100% to 1000% and up. They all emerged from one of seven classic price consolidation structures (chart bases of seven to 65 weeks). Crucially, over 90% of these bases were formed during general market sell-offs that occur once or twice a year.

So, the correct time to learn to buy the next potential big new leader that has accelerating earnings and sales is when a key general market index finally rallies. The signal occurs on a fourth or later day of its attempted rally, when the index has a follow-through day up a huge percentage in price on a volume increase from the day before. Once this happens, the best stocks typically move up in price and emerge from properly formed bases.

Therefore, you need to learn to read charts and track IBD's market indexes. IBD's The Big Picture column will help you by pointing out follow-through days as well as periods of excessive distribution (selling) days over any 4 or 5 week period.

So, keep learning more from IBD and discover how to capitalize on America's relentless parade of remarkable new entrepreneurial leaders!

IBD's 197 Industry Sub-Group Rankings Help You See New Trends!

Specific industry groups lead every new market uptrend, & specific stocks within those groups are the drivers. Group action also influences at least half of a stock's performance.

IBD's 197 Industry Sub-Group Rankings filters stocks into very specific sub-groups to help you find where the real leadership resides. This helps you focus on key stocks driving the trends and making better price gains! It's essential information you can't get anywhere else!

Industry rankings are computed based on performance over the past week, three, six and seven months. Strongest groups each day are boldfaced to identify potential trends early on. The weakest are underlined.

Some Leaders In Health Care Shaping Bases

China Yuchai International makes diesel engines and diesel-powered generators.

Thanks to a rebound in China's commercial vehicle market, the firm's Q3 earnings shot up 29.2%. Sales grew 34%, the second straight quarter of acceleration after a stretch of subpar results.

The firm recently announced a couple of joint ventures. One involves remanufacturing engines with Caterpillar®.

China Yuchai is rebounding from its 10-week moving average and is working on a new base. The stock corrected just over 15% from its December peak — a tad much for a flat base.

Longtop Financial Technologies provides software development and IT solutions for the fast-growing financial services industry in China.

In the past four quarters, Longtop's earnings grew 29% to 75%. Sales climbed 47% to 79% over the same period.

Analysts see Longtop's earnings rising 38% in the quarter ended in December.

The stock broke out from a cup-

Stocks In The News

Shows you market-leading stocks every day. It's a great place for you to find investing ideas, especially as soon as a key general market index has a follow-through day (FTD) and starts a new uptrend. Historically, FTD's succeed 70% of the time and the best new leaders break out in the first 3 weeks when most people hesitate buying. Don't miss these future turns! Charts are selected by a daily screening.

Also, IBD editors give you a detailed analysis on select stocks to help you assess their potential.

Online Resources: Use IBD Charts on Investors.com to accurately spot the potential buy points we discuss here.

Leading Market Sector Indexes

These market sector indexes track stocks representative of key sectors of the U.S. economy. The top-performing sectors year-to-date are shown daily, YTD % change is at the top right above each chart.

Where possible, companies comprising the sector index are listed, to show you stocks behind the trend.

IBD's 52-Week Highs and Lows

Unlike any other business or financial publication, IBD combines all NYSE and Nasdaq stocks making new price highs or lows and places them into IBD's 33 broad industry sectors. We then list the sectors in order of those showing the largest number of new highs followed by the sectors showing the largest number of new lows.

This quickly lets you recognize and understand which industry sector is the strongest and the weakest.

But that's not all. IBD then lists new highs within each sector in order of those that showed the greatest % increase in their trading volume for that day. Each stock's symbol is shown so you can easily check an IBD chart on Investors.com. IBD also gives you the stock's EPS rank and closing price. Stocks with an EPS rank of 95 or higher are boldfaced.

Finally, IBD provides you with 5 other professional measurements for you to cross-check and zero in with unmatched accuracy on the top sector for your investments, plus the sectors for you to avoid:

1. IBD's stock tables sorted by sector with the best recent price action.

2. IBD's 197 Industry Sub-Group table

3. IBD's box of groups with the highest % of their stocks making new highs.

4. Fidelity's year-to-date top 10 performing industry funds.

5. IBD's leading market sectors daily mini price and volume charts.

Now it's up to you.

MUST READ!

The 20 Rules are based on decades of research into how the market actually works -- and they're the foundation for all the features, screens and tools you will get with Investor's Business Daily and Investors.com. If you get serious and carefully follow all of these historically proven rules, your investment results can substantially improve. You can do it if you make up your mind!

IBD'S 20 Rules For Investment Success

- 1 Focus on stocks with each of the last three years' earnings up 25%+, return on equity of 17%+ and recent earnings and sales accelerating.
- 2 Recent quarterly earnings and sales should be up 25% or more.
- 3 Avoid cheap stocks. Buy higher-quality stocks selling at $15 a share and higher.
- 4 Learn how to use charts to see sound base patterns and exact buy points.
- 5 Cut every loss when it's 8% below your cost. Make no exceptions so you can always avoid huge, damaging losses. Never average down in price.
- 6 Follow selling rules on when to sell and take profit on the way up.
- 7 Buy when market indexes are in an uptrend. Reduce investments and raise cash when general market indexes show five or more days of volume distribution.
- 8 Read IBD's Investor's Corner and Big Picture columns to learn how to recognize important tops and bottoms in market indexes.
- 9 Buy stocks with a Composite Rating of 90 or more and a Relative Price Strength Rating of 85 or higher in the IBD SmartSelect® Corporate Ratings.
- 10 Pick companies with management ownership of stock.

- 11 Buy mostly in the top six broad industry sectors in IBD's New Highs List.
- 12 Select stocks with increasing institutional sponsorship in recent quarters.
- 13 Current quarterly after-tax profit margins should be improving, near their peak and among the best in the stock's industry.
- 14 Don't buy because of dividends or P-E ratios.
- 15 Pick companies with a superior new product or service.
- 16 Invest mainly in entrepreneurial New America companies. Pay close attention to those with an IPO in the past 8 years.
- 17 Check into companies buying back 5% to 10% of their stock and those with new management.
- 18 Don't try to bottom-guess or buy on the way down. Never argue with the market. Forget your pride and ego.
- 19 Find out if the market currently favors big-cap or small-cap stocks.
- 20 Do a post-analysis of all your buys and sells. Post on charts where you bought and sold each stock. Evaluate and develop rules to correct your major past mistakes.
